

INTENTIONAL TRANSFORMATIVE EXPERIENCES

According to a long-standing belief, exceptional life-changing experiences are beyond the individual's control—they 'simply happen.' However, individuals actively search for transformative experiences, inducing consciousness-alterations through practices and reflecting critically on the long process as 'experientialist philosophers.' The conference will devote itself primarily on theoretical questions involving these intentional practices that result in actively induced experiential states. As such, the aim is to add to our understanding of intentional transformative experiences.
